

Our aim is to assist and give guidelines to our buyers by providing a guideline, and that the product provided is intended to be used for research or study purposes. We encourage the users of our site to exercise common sense and discretion while using these essays and their critiques. We strongly advise our users against copying the essays, or parts thereof, since there are numerous services on the internet that allow universities to check essays for suspected plagiarism. One such service is www.plagiarism.org. We'd advise any user who is tempted to copy-paste parts of these essays to first consult what services such as plagiarism.org have to offer. In case you do decide to plagiarise these essays, we absolve ourselves of all responsibility for the dire consequences that could (and should) follow. Please remember that these essays are meant to enable you to write better and they're certainly not intended to be short-cuts to application-essay glory.